MALE SPEAKER 1: Dover Coastguard.

MALE SPEAKER 2: Yeah, good morning. It's Border Force Maritime command.

MALE SPEAKER 1: Hi there.

MALE SPEAKER 2: Hi there. I'm just seeing on your tracker that Charlie has been resolved, that's the one we tasked Valiant to.

MALE SPEAKER 1: Yeah, we've got somebody phoned -- we just want to clarify that one because yeah, they've said it's resolved. We've got -- we're working across two stations at the moment, so we're just trying to make sure everything goes as it should. But if we can keep Valiant going at the moment to make -- we've got updated position from them, so I can't like I can't see that they have picked them up, if that makes -- do you know what I mean?

MALE SPEAKER 2: Yeah, because we thought that one was in the UK waters, didn't we, Charlie?

MALE SPEAKER 1: Yeah. So I'm. I'm going to go back over that one and look to see why they seem to think they've picked them up. But as we've had recent comms as 2.13 from the vessel, I'm fairly confident that they haven't resolved it.

MALE SPEAKER 2: Right. You've spoken to them direct, have you, the (Overspeaking)

MALE SPEAKER 1: Yeah, there have been (Overspeaking). Lots of people shouting from a phone number and they've given a position via WhatsApp.

MALE SPEAKER 2: Okay, okay. If I leave that with you just now then and if you can come back to us and give us an update --

MALE SPEAKER 1: Yeah, no problem.

MALE SPEAKER 2: -- when you can and we'll take it from there.

MALE SPEAKER 1: No problem at all.

MALE SPEAKER 2: Cool, okay.

MALE SPEAKER 1: We've just done a Mayday Relay for that one so I'm confident the French don't have them.

MALE SPEAKER 2: Okay. It's just changed back to red again in front of me so it's open again. Okay, that's fine. We'll leave Valiant to crack on.

MALE SPEAKER 1: Thank you very much, sir, cheers.

MALE SPEAKER 2: Cheers.
